What is Contextualized Leadership Development?

More than thirty years ago, Golden Gate Seminary recognized that if it was to fulfill its mandate with the Southern Baptist Convention to provide training for effective leadership in the churches of the West, then graduate level programs in English would not be enough to address the needs of those churches. Training would need to be offered at the post-high school level, in languages most useful to the churches, at sites close to the churches and at a cost affordable to the students. Begun first in the early 1980's in partnership with the North American Missions Board of the SBC, Ethnic Leadership Development (as CLD was then called) offered basic training to Christian leaders for church planting, evangelism, and ministry.

This training was to be done locally, affordably, at a post-high school level, in the language of the students, in a manner approved by Golden Gate's faculty, and consistent with reaching people through local churches.

What is the Uwharrie Missional Center (URE-MC)?

The URE Missional Center is a school of training established under a cooperative agreement between Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary and the Stanly Baptist Association, approved by the CLD Office and the Office of Academic Affairs of Golden. Our center focuses on (1) training laity for mission in the world and (2) providing local, practical ministry training for ethnic and small church leaders through offering approved diploma programs with an excellent faculty.
